NOTICE.
TO SHIPPERS AND CONSUMERS OF BUTTER IN THE CHINA AND EAST INDIA PORTS.

IT has been brought to our notice that certain parties are packing BUTTER for the China market, and representing themselves as sole agents for HORACE L. SILL," and that the representations made by one of said parties in China had the effect to obtain for the so-called "Sill's brand" a price greater than that obtained for the BUTTER packed by us.

While we care nothing about the use of Mr. Sill's name, we feel a regard for our own reputation, and do not wish to remain under even a suspicion of inferiority which a difference in price inevitably suggests. We therefore beg leave to call your attention to the following facts.

Our Mr. C. H. PRATT was connected in business with H. L. SILL from 1844 to 1856. Mr. SILL retired from active business in 1859, retaining a special interest until 1865, when the connection ceased, and since, that time has not packed any BUTTER for shipment. From 1847 to 1856 Mr. PRATT personally selected and superviued the packing of every pound of BUTTER that left this port branded "H. L. SILL." In 1857 and 1858 he branded "C. H. PRATT, successor to H. L. Sill," but since that time has preferred to let his BUTTER go under his own name and stand upon its merits.

Mr. PRATT, as Mr. SILL's partner and successor in the only party legally entitled to use the brand "H. L. SILL," and the present packers of the so-called "Sill's brand" of BUTTER, knowing that fact, attempt to get around it by styling themselves "sole agents;" the fallacy of which is apparent from the fact that Mr. SILL has not packed any BUTTER for over thirteen years.

With over twenty years' experience in packing for the China market, controlling some of the best dairies in the country, and both partners

HONGKONG, MARCH 12, 1867.

THE "unearthed despatch" regarding the Stamp Act, tells a few tales out of school. Lord CARNARVON being responsible for the welfare of the colony, is of course justified in doing what he may think fit—no influence can be brought to bear upon him except in the House of Commons, and as that august body looks upon the colony as fish women look on eels, namely accustomed to be skinmedalive, we unfortunate outcasts have simply to chew the end of bitter fancy over our grievances.

But we have said the unearthed despatch tells tales out of school. In the first place Lord CARNARVON tells Governor MACDONNELL, that his Lordship is glad to infer that the able answers which the Governor had returned to the Memorialists are producing their effects upon the inhabitants of Hongkong. Now here is a case of that official crime which so entirely prevails here, that it may be said to amount to the constitution on which the Government of the colony is based—we mean the practice of suppressio veri and suggestio falsi. Sir RICHARD MACDONNELL, it seems, in order to persuade the Secretary of State for the Colonies to confirm the Stamp Act, perpetrated the above canard in a despatch to Lord CARNARVON, and his Lordship, believing the absurd story, naturally fancied the objections of the Memorialists to be withdrawn.

Let the reader observe—Lord CARNARVON states he readily believes that the objections of the Memorialists "do not proceed from any "captious spirit of opposition to the mere "expenditure of money, but from a serious "apprehension of the mode in which it is "proposed to raise the necessary amount, and "to the future effects upon the financial legis-"lation of the colony." Why nothing can be clearer than that but for the misrepresentation of Governor MACDONNELL the Memorialists would have received a most courteous, if not a favorable reply. Either Lord CARNARVON fancied that Governor MACDONNELL had convinced us we were all wrong, or his Lordship has replied to the Memorial, and Governor MACDONNELL has suppressed it.

We merely adduce this case as an instance in point of the vicious system which prevails. It has ever been thus. In each and every instance where the community of this colony has been at issue with the local administration, the GOVERNOR has invariably misrepresented matters to the Secretary of State, and his veracity stood unimpeached until the tardy publication of Parliamentary papers has revealed it, when of course the mischief had been effected.

In the case before us the community should again memorialise Lord CARNARVON, stating that Governor MACDONNELL's arguments tended rather to confirm the objections than to remove them.

But this is not all which the "unearthed despatch" discloses. The memorial of a whole community against an act of tyranny is treated as nothing, although they are complimented on their motives, but the suggestions of the Chairman of the Oriental Bank Corporation, that notes issued here should be exempt from the operation of the Stamp Act, is quite another thing—and Lord CARNARVON requests Governor MACDONNELL, "not to "overlook the possibility of its being found "advisable to modify the provisions which "affect the issue of Bank Notes in Hong-"kong." Why certainly if anything requires extra surveillance and restriction in this colony, it is the issue of Bank Notes. But the fact is, the Oriental Bank is a potent institution, and naturally possesses parliamentary interest. Parties are nearly equally poised now in the House. Mr. GORDON was worth obliging, but as for the Hongkong people "let them be skinned, they are well used to it."

Thus nepotism and jobbery and corruption are perpetrated. The Government of British colonies is absolutely barbarous. Let mobs of roughs collect from all parts of the world at a gold producing colony, and the Home Government will give them representative institutions and universal suffrage, because their numbers make them formidable, but let a body of wealthy and intelligent merchants, lovers of law and order, be coerced to settle on a place like this, and they are squeezed and tyrannized over, refused all representative institutions, and ruled by place hunters who are adepts at the official crimes we have mentioned above.

THE Harbor Master's returns for 1866, are published in Saturday's Gazette. The following extract from that officer's despatch will sufficiently indicate the result:—

HARBOR MASTER'S DEPARTMENT,
HONGKONG, 29*th February*, 1867.

SIR,—In forwarding my Annual Returns and Report of the Shipping of this Port for the year ending the 31st December, 1866, I regret having to report a large decrease in the arrivals amounting to 113,403 Tons, the whole of which is in British bottoms; the arrivals in foreign bottoms remaining at about the same tonnage as in 1865.

The British trade with India has fallen off 91,880 Tons, and with the ports in China (exclusive of Macao and Canton) see River Trade, 25,758 Tons; with America, Java, and Japan there is also a decrease amounting to 19,267 Tons, but against this large decrease from the places mentioned it is satisfactory to find the trade from Great Britain, Australia, and Siam has increased 24,158 Tons, still leaving with a few trifling differences on other Countries the large falling off before mentioned.

With respect to the arrivals in foreign vessels, the trade with India, North and South America, Java, and Japan has decreased to the amount of 44,923 Tons, against an increase from Great Britain, Australia, Siam and Ports of China of 44,290 Tons, which with a few slight differences from other Countries will show in the whole an increase of 57 Tons.

Of the difference in the numbers of vessels arriving at this port during the last year, there is a falling off on the whole of 410, of these 259 are British. The Danish Flag in these waters, since the war in the Schleswig-Holstein Duchies has nearly ceased to exist. In 1865, 141 vessels of that nation were entered, this last year, shews a Return of 33 only. The Prussian Flag is becoming more common and will during the current year show a still larger number of vessels wearing it. The American, Dutch, French and Spanish vessels have also increased in numbers.

The depressed state of Trade between China and India during the last year will account for the great falling off of British Shipping, nearly the whole of that Trade in 1865 having been done by English Steamers. There was then a strong inducement for vessels to bring cargoes here en route to India and Great Britain and several large vessels were employed in bringing Indian produce for China; during 1866 there was no such inducement and many vessels were consequently kept running between the Northern ports of China, while others were sold to the Japanese.

Further on in the despatch the Harbor Master states under the head of Exports and Imports. "These sheets are forwarded in a "blank state, as from the absence of a regular "Custom House, the returns cannot, be col-"lected." We regret we cannot admit the force of this argument. The want of the returns of Trade from Hongkong materially detract from the usefulness of the elaborate Customs returns, which Mr. HART, the able Inspector General of the Maritime Customs, takes so much pains to furnish to the public. The returns of the cargoes of all steamers arriving and leaving here, would we think supply the defect—at all events; these and the import of Cotton from India by sailing ships would certainly go far to do so. Now we beg to say, that Government would find no difficulty whatever in procuring such returns as we have indicated. They would simply require the totals every six months, and these they would be supplied with by the mere asking. The amount of treasure received—the same exported to India—the same exported to the coast. The quantity of opium imported and exported—with the necessary details, would be nearly all that is required.

We may add, the total amount of shipping for 1866, stands thus:—

Arrivals.....	1866, vessels, 949,866 tons.....	1,66,929	crew
Departures..	1867, " 941,455 "	46,146	"

This evening the Garrison Amateurs will give a performance at the Garrison Theatre for the benefit of Miss Annie Hill. The pieces selected for representation are H. J. Byron's burlesque, "Lady of Lyons" (in which Miss Annie Hill will sustain the character of Claude Melnotte) and the farce of "My Friend from Leatherhead." Considering the success these pieces met with on their last representation at the Garrison Theatre, there is every reason to hope that the Amateurs will this evening meet with encouragement and support and Miss Annie Hill reap some substantial fruits from her benefit.

THE FIRST NORTH GERMAN PARLIAMENT.—The correspondent of the London and China Express, writing from Hamburg, under date January 23rd, says:—"In the adjoining town of Altona, which with its rural population forms an electoral district, a large and influential part of the commercial community has resolved to put in nomination Mr. William Pustau, the China merchant of that place, as he is considered not only a proper person to represent that constituency in Parliament from his extensive knowledge and experience of commercial affairs, but has shown on various occasions considerable tact and judgment in politics. Moreover, there is but little doubt that he would be a persona grata at Berlin, as at an early period he showed that he comprehended the mission of Prussia in Schleswig-Holstein by signing the so-called address of the seventeen notabilities of the duchy. What tends to strengthen Mr. Pustau's chance of success at the coming election is that Mr. Th. Reincke, the only other candidate with hopes of being elected, declines the honour of being put in nomination. It is even stated that the latter gentleman recommends his personal and political friends to support Mr. Pustau with their vote and interest, but I cannot vouch for the truth of the statement."

NEWS FROM THE NORTH.

Fortnightly Summary.

(From the Japan Herald)

JAPAN.

The news of the week embraces two events of considerable interest. One of these viz.,—the death of the Mikado—we have noticed elsewhere, and we refer to it again merely to assure our readers that the report is well-founded. It brought the new year festivities to an abrupt termination. On Sunday last men might be seen going about the Japanese town pulling down in all haste the emblems and decorations placed over the doors and before the houses at new year; holiday costumes were put away, and visiting and all other pleasure-taking, which under ordinary circumstances would have continued longer at this season, were decorously brought to a close the moment the news of the Mikado's death was made known. We are assured that at Yedo and throughout the country generally similar signs of respect and mourning were observable. Our early announcement of this have caused us to be charged, in envy, perhaps, with having "killed the Mikado." The Gorogio, however, had officially killed him first; the Governor of Kanagawa, as we have stated, killed him last Sunday and has mourned for him ever since; when Mr. Mitford arrived at Hiogo on the 9th instant, he found that Admiral Kuroki (who was then in his flag ship) had killed him too; and the Governor of Osaka had also been killing the Mikado, whose death was the common talk of the whole town which is within a few miles of Kioto.

The second event of much interest has been the departure of the Tycoon's brother for Europe. His name is Tokugawa Mimbutsiu Dono (the last word being a title of nobility). He is a young man about 21 years of age, apparently very energetic and intelligent, and said to have a great passion for foreign travelling. He has been selected to represent Japan at the approaching Paris Exhibition. It is his intention to visit England and other Countries and to prolong his stay in Europe for a considerable time. He has taken a numerous suite with him, and is accompanied by Mokoyama, in company, a viceroy of Foreign Affairs, who will act as his Mentor. We have heard him accused by some of his compatriots as being already too much inclined to despise the manners and ways of his own Country, and too partial to those of foreigners. If this be so, he will doubtless return a very polished and enlightened man, whose experience, as we formerly expressed it, "will act as a leaven amongst his stay-at-home compatriots" who have the means to travel. We fully expect that the great carrying companies will find Japanese travellers to be their best customers before long, and it will be the interest of those companies to see that the polite travellers, who are accustomed to be treated with kindness and respect in their own country, shall be treated with kindness and respect while on board ship.

The young prince who has just left by the French mail steamer is fortunate in being accompanied by Mr. A. von Siebold, of the British Legation, whose linguistic abilities must contribute greatly to render the Prince's voyage an agreeable one. Mr. von Siebold proceeds to Europe on leave of absence.

The foreign ministers have been officially informed that the Mikado will be buried on the 27th of 1st month (day after to-morrow).

H. M. S. Princess Royal had been at Hiogo, in the Inland Sea, awaiting with H. M. S. Basilisk the arrival of the British Minister Plenipotentiary, Sir Harry Parkes K.C.B., who was expected to accept the invitation about to be sent to him and all the other foreign ministers to visit the new Tycoon Stotsbashi at Osaca castle, in honour of his election. The invitation (of any Daimio of whatever rank, wealth or power, might have been accepted or declined on the instant, but such a compliment issuing from the Tycoon, a personage hitherto surrounded with more than the ordinary amount of the sacredness, not to say divinity that doth hedge a king, is likely to have a political object at the bottom of it, had to be well considered, and two gentlemen from the British Legation were sent round to Hiogo, to confer with the Tycoon's representative upon the subject. The death of the Mikado has, however, put this visit out of the question until the days of mourning are past, and we should suppose until a new Mikado is installed. But little is known by foreigners as to the law of succession or the forms and ceremonies attending it—so at present all is?

On Sunday the 24th instant H. M. S. Basilisk arrived at this port from Osaka with Messrs. Mitford and Satow on board, who express themselves as highly satisfied with the reception which they met with at that place. As they in the first instance landed at Hiogo, an escort was sent to convey them from thence to Osaka. They were accompanied by Captain Carden of the 9th Regiment and an officer of H. M. S. Argus whom they had asked to join their party. They describe the road between the two towns as about 25 miles in length, and as lying in a plain bounded on one side by the sea and on the other by a ridge of mountains. On reaching Osaka they found that a temple had been prepared for their reception, while servants and horses had been placed at the disposal. The morning after his arrival, Mitford received a formal visit from the Governor of the town, which he returned the following day; and during his stay of nine days he received and returned several other visits either of courtesy or business. No reluctance was evinced to shew the party whatever objects of interest existed in the town; on the contrary, the authorities seemed to look on Mr. Mitford and his friends as their guests, and vied with one another in their efforts to do them the honours in the way most likely to be agreeable. They took care that they should extend their excursions into every quarter of the town; they escorted them to temples and tea houses, and even had plays performed for them at the theatres, although these places of public amusement had all been closed as a mark of respect to the late Mikado. Whatever part of the city was traversed, Mr. Mitford describes the crowds that pressed to catch a glimpse of the foreigners as immense, but he never witnessed the smallest sign of hostility or dislike. No stones were thrown, no spitting occurred as he passed beneath the bridges, nor any other of those little annoyances which are occasionally encountered at Yeddo. Various estimates were given him of the population of Osaka, but no doubt remained in his mind as to the importance of the place which is spoken of as a grand commercial centre. The establishment of one of the native merchants in particular into which he entered, impressed him by its vastness and apparent signs of wealth. Many of the houses are built of stone, and consist of three storeys besides a cellar. The merchants, both the subjects of Daimios and those owing immediate allegiance to the Tycoon, are looking forward with eagerness to the opening of Hiogo and Osaka as calculated to afford a new opening for foreign goods as well as a fresh market for their own productions. The Prince of Satsuma has quite recently acquired a large piece of land at Hiogo on which it is his intention to construct warehouses for the storing his merchandise. A feature of no little importance, as likely to affect the security and liberty of the first foreign settlers, is the comparative scarcity of the two-sworded retainers of Daimios who have elsewhere done so much to embarrass and endanger our relations with Japan.

It is again our painful duty to record another suicide, this being the second that has occurred within the past fortnight. Mr. Lands, under-steward at the United Yokohama Club, met his death at his own hands on Friday morning about 10 o'clock. It appears that the unfortunate young man told one of his companions that he should go out for a walk and would not be back in time to attend to the dining room; but instead of taking a long walk, he simply went into the water closet, and, putting the muzzle of a loaded revolver close to his ear, shot himself. The deceased had been drinking rather heavily of late and had just recovered from a severe attack of delirium tremens; it is supposed that while still labouring under the effects of that dreadful malady he committed the rash act.

HIOGO.

No news of particular importance save a destructive fire which commenced near Porgasaunea, just by the water's side, and burned right up the hill, luckily there was no wind at the time and the conflagration was subdued just below the residence of Messrs. Wilkie & Gaertner. On the 24th ult. a Russian officer belonging to the Morge, shot himself.

Weather not very cold, Ther. 26: a considerable fall of snow and good roads for sleighs.

Police Intelligence, March 11th.

BEFORE THE HON. W. H. RENNIE.

An immense number of seamen and others were brought up charged with being drunk about the streets yesterday, refusing to pay their hire, assaulting the police &c., they were all fined in sums of from $1 to $3 each according to the nature of their several offences, one of them who attempted to rescue his chum from the hands of Sergeant Abbott who was on special duty in plain clothes, completely destroyed the sergeant's coat in so doing, and in addition to a fine of fifty cents was ordered to pay $7, the value of the garment in question; another man who had struck a constable and owned he was drunk was fined $3, he then requested to be allowed to make a statement which was that he had been ill used while in the cells, he was shifted from one cell to the other and afterwards was put into a place he did not know whether it was the black hole or the condemned cell, and while there two constables came in and gave him a hammering, knocking one of his teeth down his throat and nearly breaking two of his fingers. It turned out however, that this fellow had been so dreadfully noisy and violent that it became necessary to lock him up in one of the dark cells in good and any injuries he had received were caused by his own violence, neither was his tooth, out or his fingers broken but he had been so horribly noisy in gaol that he had to be taken from a comfortable cell with a bed in it in which he had been first placed and put into the black hole; a seaman belonging to the Princess Royal who had also torn the coat of P. C. 44 John Arch was fined $1 and ordered to pay $8 the value of the coat. One of them was rather a curious case in which a man was charged with attacking and attempting to rob a person in the street, the whole affair however turned out to be a mistake.

Richard Mearns employed on board the Lorcha Spy, stated that on Saturday night last, at about eleven o'clock he was walking near the Jesu House in Hollywood Road when three Europeans rushed out from behind a wall, surrounded and seized him, they dragged him under a lamp post and had a look at him; witness said he had no money on him but if they would not hurt him and come to a certain place with him he would give them anything they wanted two of them accompanied him to Queen's Road where he called a constable intending to give them both in charge but one ran away and prisoner only was taken.

Prisoner made a most confused rigmarole statement in which "standing the drinks" and "says he" and "says I" figured most prominently, leading to the conclusion that these "drinks" had a great deal to do with the affair, and as complainant owned that he had taken a "glass or two" his worship dismissed the case cautioning the complainant that he must be more careful in bringing charges against people.

BREACHES OF ORDINANCE.

C. C. Smith Esq., Registrar General, summoned Mr. Sourmann, clerk employed by Messrs. Judine, Matheson & Co., for unlawfully endorsing his servants' certificate of registration on discharging him, the case however was dismissed his worship holding that the section under which Mr. Smith had taken out the summons was rather vague and might lead to the supposition that the master was bound to endorse the certificate although a subsequent notification in the "Government Gazette" had plainly laid down the course to be pursued.

Mr. Smith contended that the fact of defendant having endorsed "dismissed" on the back of the certificate might injure the boys character, but defendant denied that he had any intention of doing so at all and thought he was merely complying with the terms of the ordinance.

A Chinaman was also summoned for making use of a householder's registration certificate not belonging to him.

Mr. Smith stated that on Saturday last defendant applied to him for a certificate of fitness for obtaining a night pass and bringing with him a householder's certificate in the name of Poone-atye which he said was his own, it turned out however, that his name was Mak-ahung.

Defendant stated that he was employed as accountant by Poone-atye and had been sent by his master to obtain the pass, as the certificate belonged to his master he did not think he was doing any harm by using it as he belonged to the same shop.

Poone-atye on being called stated that he had not time to go himself and so had sent the defendant, he did not know that the regulations prohibited him from giving his ticket to his shopman.

His worship said that the regulations had been long enough in force for every one to know them and Poone-atye must be aware that the registration ticket belonged to him personally and not to anyone who might be in his shop; the law however more particularly punished those who made use of a certificate not belonging to them and he should fine the defendant $2 as a warning to him and others not to make use of other people's names in future.

RATTEN HAUL.

William Spears a member of the chain-gang guard, was charged with assaulting a female named Chum-amoey on the 9th instant.

Prosecutrix stated that on Saturday afternoon last at about half past four o'clock she was making purchases in front of her house when the prisoner came up from behind and seized hold of her dress, she turned round and remonstrated with him and he slapped her face causing her to lose one of her earrings.

Prisoner stated that he was in charge of a gang of convicts and prosecutrix insisted on speaking to one of them, he told her to go away but she would not so he gave her a shove, he then moved on with his gang and their baskets of earth and on his return to the spot again the woman and some others attacked and beat him with broomsticks and afterwards she accused him of stealing one of her ear-rings.

Mr. Douglas said that prisoner held a very good character in the gaol but in the present instance he had no doubt but that he had committed himself by laying hands on the woman in an indecent manner; but he wished to draw his worship's attention to the fact that when the charge was first preferred prosecutrix after being repeatedly warned by the inspector on duty insisted in asserting that prisoner had snatched the ring from her ear.

His worship said he had some doubts about the matter and would dismiss the case leaving Mr. Douglas to deal with the delinquent as he thought proper which that gentleman did by fining the prisoner $5 for breach of gaol discipline.

STEALING FROM A CHILD.

Hoong-leong, an old offender shorn of his pernuquial ornament was charged with snatching some money from a child the son of a private in the Ceylon Rifles.

Hamun Lahm, private in the Ceylon Rifles, stated that on Saturday last at about six o'clock, P.M. his son, a small boy of five years old, was going out to buy some sugar cane and on his way was robbed of his money by some Chinese.

Tang-acheong, a licensed hawker, was called as a witness and although there was every reason to suppose that he had seen the whole affair he refused to say anything whatever about it.

Mr. Douglas, said that the prisoner was an old offender and a very dangerous character who had once been in gaol twelve months for larceny from the person and twice since then for petty offences.

His worship said that there was no evidence against prisoner in the present case he should therefore dismiss him, but if he was considered a dangerous character he could be again brought up on that charge; accordingly on leaving court he was at once arrested again by direction of Mr. Douglas and will be brought up on the charge of being a suspicious character, dangerous to the peace and well-being of the colony.

Libel at Bangkok.

Our readers must remember the report which appeared in this paper in the early part of the year regarding a disturbance which was said to have been created by M. Aubaret the French Consul at Bankok, on the occasion of one of the King's processions. It was to the effect that, in violation of all official etiquette, the French Consul had seized the opportunity which the presence of the King gave him to enter into a direct discussion of politics, and a complaint against the Kalahome or Prime Minister. The outrage was promptly noticed and very properly commented upon in the columns of the Bangkok Recorder, the only newspaper in Siam. It was clearly one of those circumstances not only open to, but demanding the interference of a public journalist; public men know that their public acts are open to fair and legitimate criticism, and this knowledge no doubt operates beneficially to restrain them in the exercise of their power. But there is, moreover powerful moral calling upon any really honest man who assumes the post of journalist in Siam, and has the interests of that country at heart, to speak out on such an occasion. The rulers of Siam have been equitable and just in all their dealings with the Western powers, and have in turn been not only protected but treated with respect and courtesy. Still, for the wiles of Western diplomacy they are no match; they are simple and timorous to a degree, and have their independence held in check by the dread of European encroachment, of which they have witnessed so many examples. These are conditions which invite from their allies a kind and fostering treatment; but they are at the same time conditions which offer powerful temptation to the overbearing and unscrupulous; and it therefore becomes a special duty on the part of a local journal to guard against every approach to disrespect towards the native government.

In this spirit was the paragraph which we copied from the Bangkok Recorder written; in which the following words occur, "Taking a paper out of his pocket (M. Aubaret) and handing it to His Majesty, he begin to speak disparagingly of H. E. the Prime Minister, saying in substance that the French and Siamese Nations could never hope to enjoy any peace so long as His Excellency was allowed to hold his place he does, and he must be humbled or the most serious consequences would result. Some say that M. Aubaret even had the impudence to propose that he himself be allowed to nominate a successor to the prime minister." This it appears in some details was incorrect, and so far Mr. Bradley, the Editor of the Bangkok Recorder, entered an explanation in this paper which we published at the time. This explanation M. Aubaret would not receive and, while acknowledging that there had been an outbreak on the occasion, brought an action of libel in the U. S. Consular court against Mr. Bradley on the ground that the passage we have quoted was a "base calumny," and we have been furnished with a copy of the Judgment given on the 5th instant after several sittings. It is as follows:—

The Spanish Coup d'état.

(From the Morning Herald.)

The Bourbon capacity for learning nothing and forgetting nothing is receiving once more, and perhaps the last illustration. Of the three proud thrones possessed by the family, two have gone to irreclaimable perdition, and the third is following with eager and jealous haste. The genius of the race continues to attend it with scrupulous fidelity, to guide it steadily along the old path, to dispose it by the old means to the old end. In spite of a thousand opportunities and chances of escape, Queen Isabella is resolved to play out the third piece in the trilogy with all due point and circumstance, to remit none of the hereditary efforts, and to spare none of the traditional episodes. Spain is marching to revolution precisely as France and Naples went before her, and she will not be stayed until her doom is accomplished. There never was, perhaps, in modern history so deliberate a pursuit of revolution as that which the Queen's Government is now making. There is something tragic in the midst of the ludicrous! the determined and devoted manner in which the Spanish Government is arranging the scene and settling the properties for the final dénouement. The situation almost defies the pity or sympathy of foreign nations. The Queen has resolved to rule through the sword and the Church. The Gonzalos, on whom which Englishmen troubled themselves so much, for which they bled and fought so freely, for which Spaniards themselves fought so strenuously, is now a shadow of the past. Of the fabric of Spanish constitutional liberty scarcely a vestige remains; and one reading of the acts of Narvaez may almost doubt whether the deeds of Espartero and the contests of Christino and Carlist were not all a myth. The present Government of Spain takes as book to Ferdinand VII. and the old Bourbon absolutism. The worst crimes—the most outrageous follies—that were attributed to the old Legitimist regime are revived under the rule of a Queen whose seat on the throne is an expression of the final triumph of Spanish Liberalism! The revenge of the priestly party has been complete. The condition of a great nation subject to the dominion of the "Bleeding Nun" is something which it is hard for English minds to realise. The possibility of such a kind of thraldom is among the cosas de Espana which are a puzzle to the understanding. A more tangible evidence of the curious situation of Spanish affairs at present is afforded in the circumstances of the late arrest and deportation of a hundred and seventy members of the Chamber of Deputies for the offence of addressing a petition on public grievances to the Queen. The subsequent imprisonment of Marshal Serrano, the President of the Upper House, a grandee of the first class, a noted defender of the existing dynasty, and late personal favourite of the Queen, is a still more significant proof of the manner in which constitutionalism is now interpreted in Spain. The offence of Marshal Serrano and of the hundred and twenty deputies was that they "violated the law" in representing that there could be anything objectionable in the Queen's Government. "Nothing," as the Captain General of Castille, the servant of Narvaez, pertinently observes, "is so great as justice; nothing so estimable as peace and order." The justice from which it is treason for a Spanish nobleman to appeal is the word of Narvaez. The peace and order for questioning which popular deputies are transported are the government and system of Narvaez. The last stage of Spanish constitutionalism is this, that there shall be one voice to declare what is just, peaceful, and orderly in the kingdom, and that voice shall find its inspiration in the Queen's soul and its exponent in the Spanish army. The acts of the Queen and Narvaez are pronounced by two of the leading Government journals of France to be "perfectly legal and constitutional." It may be so, but the question for outside observers who are interested in the good government of Spain is, how long this kind of law and constitution is likely to last. Even Spaniards, we should presume, must be afflicted with doubts sometimes as to the perfect infallibility of Narvaez. They may or may not be ripe for what elsewhere could be called constitutional government. It may be quite legal and orderly in Spain to transport a whole Parliamentary Opposition for objecting to the Government policy, and to imprison the head of the House of Peers for seeking an interview with the Queen. But the country in which these things are done and supported cannot be in a healthy condition as regards either itself or its neighbours. The Spaniards may be unfit for parliamentary government—there are very few nations which are fit for that—and absolutism may be the best system for them. But is there any reason to believe that the brutal and violent despotism of Narvaez, supported as it is only by the sword, and having for its main object the restoration of the priestly influence, represents the natural and wholesome condition of modern Spain? Narvaezis but one, and certainly not the most able or the most popular of that ever-recurrent series of Spanish military adventurers who are heard of either as getting shot for a street revolution or dissolving the Cortes. He owes his present place in the Queen's favour in preference to his rival O'Donnell simply to the fact of being a more tractable tool in the hands of the Madrid Camarilla. There is no proof that he has any real hold on the country—even on the army—by which alone his government is sustained. He may be in the streets himself to-morrow, or at the Canary Islands, or Porto Rico. The Bleeding Nun may have a new vision, or her mistress a new access of piety. A system based upon such aids, presents no one guarantee of permanency. It is revolution, in fact enthroned—disorder made into authority—violence fixed into an institution. It would be an injustice to the character of the Spanish people to suppose that the usual revolution will not follow upon these extraordinary proceedings. The very excess of violence to which Narvaez has resorted will only render the inevitable reaction more decided and complete. The present Government exists but by the favour of the army; and a Spanish army is not proverbial for the constancy of its attachments. To increase the chances of its once more turning traitor there is the prospect of short pay. The Government has been compelled already to collect the taxes one year in advance—to indent upon 1867 for the expenses of 1866. It has exhausted its borrowing resources and it must go on eating into the future, as it has begun to do. And if it carries out its declared intention of restoring the property of the Church, it will find itself in still greater pecuniary straits by-and-bye. The most sanguine believer in Narvaez cannot ensure six months' life to a system which is a reproach even to absolutism, for it is a negation of all the commonest principles of government. A despotism to be respectable must never be ridiculous. From the moment it begins to excite contempt instead of terror it ceases to have any legitimate reason for being.
